Panama City Cruisers Guide

The Panama City Cruisers Guide is compiled from information gleaned from the morning VHF cruiser's net and those who have taken the time to submit additions. THANK YOU to all who have contributed.

This guide is divided into five sections:

1. Maps (pages 2 - 5)
2. Overview of Listing Content (page 6)
3. Detailed Listings and Entries (pages 7 and beyond) (Prices and what is in stock changes very quickly)
4. Panama Sights (Things to do and see in and around Panama City that are free or not too expensive) – written by Margaret on S/V Wadda, April 2011

Please send updates, additions, corrections, deletions, to:
pccguide@yahoo.com

You can download this guide, free of charge, from:
www.groups.yahoo.com
You must join either the “Southbound” or the “Cruiser's Network” group.
The guide is located in the “Files” section of each group.

The map above gives a general orientation to the City of Panama. See also the “Maps” entry in this guide for more information on interactive maps and printed maps for purchase.

There are two major transportation hubs:

1. Terminal at Albrook Mall (D6, above)
2. Plaza Cinco de Mayo (H5, above)

See the entries for “Buses/Subway” and “Taxis” for more information on these two locations.

The city is divided into numerous neighborhoods. The map above identifies some of them; such as Bella Vista (G8), Los Angeles (D10), and Punta Paitilla (I10). You will see these neighborhood designations printed on buses and in the detailed entries of this guide. Having a general idea of these neighborhoods will help you guesstimate reasonable taxi fares, read the signs on buses and figure out where shops and services are located.

Panama City has five major (mostly east-west) roads. The majority of buses will follow one of these five roads, so if you can identify them here, you will be able to figure out what bus to take to get to a location. From north to south they are:

1. Tumba Muerto (official name Via Ricardo Alfaro, but known to all as Tumba Muerto), begins at E9 in the map above, by the national brewery (Cerveceria Nacional)
2. Avenida Nacional (G5) which becomes the Transistmica at about G6/G7 (again, there are two names: Avenida Simon Bolivar and Transistmica; Transistmica being the one in common usage)
3. Via Espana/Avenida Central. At the eastern end (F16), Via Espana is a two way road. At Via Porras (F11) traffic becomes one way only, east to west (right to left above). It stays one way until Plaza Cinco de Mayo (H5) where it becomes Avenida Central. At its eastern end, Avenida Central is closed to traffic and commonly known as, “the walking street”. After the shopping area of the walking street, Avenida Central opens to cars again and continues to Casco Viejo, J5
4. Calle 50 (for English speakers, pronounced “seen-cuen-tah”) (traffic is one way, west to east, G8 to G14)
5. Avenida Balboa / Cinta Costera, the southernmost road, follows the ocean front (I5 to H10) where it continues as Via Isreal (H10 to H14) finally turning into Via Cincuentenario (H14) at Panama Viejo.

THE CINCO DE MAYO AREA

From the Causeway, use a $Taxi to get to Cinco de Mayo . Referring to the map above:

1. Pick-up spot for $Taxis (See "Taxis" for more info)
2. Drop-Off spot for $Taxis (see "Taxis" for more info)
3. Terminal Marañón (see "Buses/Subway" for more info)
4. The Walking Street

TRANSISTMICA AREA

One area of the city with many stores useful to cruisers, all within walking distance, is drawn below. A popular time to come here would be Tuesday morning to start the day with a 9:30am dim sum breakfast at Restaurant Lung Fung. Dim sum has been a Panama City cruiser tradition for many years. The cruisers share a large round table (sometimes two), select dim sum dishes from rolling carts, and divide the bill at the end. (Typical cost $6 to $8 per person.) Taxi fare should be about $7-8 for 4 people. By Bus, catch the Metro bus on the Causeway to the Albrook Mall, transfer to a Transmistica bus.

The map below IS NOT TO SCALE but everything shown is within easy walking distance. The parenthesis after the location name shows the category to look under in this guide for a description of the place. Example: Abernathy's (Chandler) – look under "Chandlers" in this guide for description.

Agents (see also “ Canal Transits ”)	You do not need an agent to transit the canal, although common consensus among cruisers has been that it is a good idea to obtain an agent if you are traveling from Colon to Panama City. The following agents, can provide assistance with canal transits, cruising permits, zarpes, etc. Canal Transit Agency 6717-6745 (Rogelio) or 6153-2089 (Deb) canaltransit@gmail.com www.panamacruiserconnection.com Deb, of Deb's Place (Cruiser Casa) and cruiser's trusted friend Rogelio (Roger) have joined forces and combined services to handle everything needed while in Panama. Their full service Transit Agency covers everything needed for a successful transit. (Roger, the former dock master at the Panama Canal Yacht Club is also listed under “Taxis”. Extremely reliable. Speaks English fluently. Always gets great reviews.) Enrique Plummer – 228-5794 or 674-3086 eplummer10@hotmail.com info@panamacanal yacht.com (Enrique is based out of Balboa on the Panama City side of the canal.) Eric Galvez 6676-1376 (prefers to provide full package of services, not just transit assists, works both sides but prefers the Pacific Side. Listed in the Raines cruising guide “Cruising Ports: Florida to California via Panama”) Oliver Yacht Services, Oliver 6602-0498 info@oliveryachtservices.com, donolivn@gmail.com Oliver is a multilingual (including English) Belgian yacht agent. Can provide lines, fenders (not tires), etc., for a canal crossing. During the cruising season (October to May) can also assist with spare parts sourcing, ship and receive packages, obtain gas, fuel, coordinate laundry. Has a website oliveryachtservices.com but would like cruisers to know to not let the web page scare them off as he is more than happy to work with cruisers as well as the big ships. Peter Stevens, Delfino Maritimo, 261-3977 or 261-1931 or 6735-7356 delfinomaritime@hotmail.com (Usually handles boats 65 feet or longer.) Stanley Scott 447-0065 or 6680-7971 Stanley provides many services including immigration, cruising permits, zarpes, canal transits, and taxi service to/from the International Airport (Tocumen PTY) in Panama City. He works on both sides of the canal and also in Portobello and Linton. Tina McBride 6637-2999 tinamcbride@hotmail.com www.PanamaCanalTransits.com (Tina’s webpage also gives helpful info about making a canal transit.) For Lines, Line Handlers or Tires only: Canal Transit Agency (contact info listed above) – Deb keeps a list of cruisers in the area interested in serving as line handlers. Rogelio (Roger) can also source professional linehandlers. Tito (Colon) 6463-5009 The Colon Tito is a taxi driver located on the Atlanti side. He can help obtain lines, line handlers, etc. for canal transits. Some cruisers have reported issues with Colon Tito providing promised paperwork. Tito (Balboa Yacht Club) 6499-2054 The Tito at BYC handles the workshop and rails at the Balboa Yacht Club. He can provide lines and line handlers for a canal transit. Crew 4U Les & Lea, 6798 0588 email: panchites@yahoo.com See also www.panlinehandler.com
Air Lines / Airports	Panama City has two airports: Tocumen (PTY) on the eastern side of town for most international flights and Albrook or Aeropuerto Marcos A. Gelabert (PAC) on the western side of town for mostly domestic flights

	(including flights to the Las Perlas and San Blas). DOMESTIC AIRLINES Air Panama 316-9000 Note: Aeroperlas stopped operating November, 2012. As of this edition, they remain non-operational. INTERNATIONAL AIRLINES Copa Airlines 227-0116 (Panama's international airline a partner with Continental Airlines) Several other airlines fly out of Tocumen International Airport, including American Airlines, Spirit, etc. You can verify which airlines are servicing this airport by going to www.tocumenpanama.aero/

Alcohol (Fuel for Alcohol Stoves)	For small quantities, see El Machetazo, under “Grocery Store, General” Gallon bottles were seen at Almacen 88 in the Santa Ana district. (From Cinco de Mayo, do down the walking street (see page 3 map) until you see a long row of shacks with tin roofs on your left. This is known as “Sal si Puede” (Leave if you can) or “Thieves Market”. Walk down to the end of the shacks. The store will be on your left at the end. Alcohol for the stove is called Alcohol Ehilico Desnaturalizado in Panama. To obtain larger quantities takes two steps (See also note below for 2013 update): <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Go to the “Comisión Nacional para el Estudio y la Prevención de los Delitos Relacionados con Drogas, Unidad de Control de Químicos” on Via España, next to the El Rey grocery store, on the same side of the street. Take your passport, boat-certification and crew list. You might also take a photo of the kitchen-stove and have the model name and number. You need to tell them where you will buy the alcohol (see next step for one option). They will give you permission to buy a fixed quantity (one cruiser was granted permission to buy 30 gallons). 2. Nacional Quimica S.A. (217-3777) sells large quantities. One pack with 4 plastic bottles of 1 gallon each was priced at $25.25 plus tax in 2011. 2013 UPDATE: One cruiser reported he called Nacional Quimica (listed above, ask to speak with someone who speaks English, if needed) and because he told them he was on a boat they waived the requirement for a license. The alcohol was delivered to him at the anchorage and he paid the driver directly. He bought 16 gallons at a price of $9.81 per gallon. All purchases must be made in multiples of 4 gallons which is packaged in four 1 gallon bottles placed in a box.

Bottom Cleaning	Alcie , 6024-2993 (in La Playita area) Manolo , 6021-6261 Not always reliable. Also, Alejandro 6781-5070 Marvin , 6637-3533. Speaks English and Spanish. Has a dive tank. Mixed reviews, has done a great job for some, others have needed him to come back. Negotiate price. Was asking $3 per foot, but accepting $1 per foot.

	Solis (aka Popocho) 6765-2320. Speaks Spanish only. Reliable. Former diver for Aero Naval. Will work at BYC, La Playita or Brisas. Best if you can provide a hooka system for him. If you cannot, specify this when you call him. Spencer, 6384-9063 (in the La Plyaita area) Several of the launcheros (water taxi drivers) at the Balboa Yacht Club clean bottoms. They may come to Las Brisas or La Playita for a few extra bucks. They speak Spanish, but if you see them in person they can understand what you are asking for. Go to the end of the muelle (pier) at the Balboa Yacht Club. Prices are negotiable but expect appx. $40-$50 for a 40 foot boat. Ask for Yoni (pronounced “Johnny”) or Eduardo. Their phone numbers are not listed in the guide any longer as they change too frequently. Do-It-Yourselfers should take their boat to Taboga Island, Isla Bona or one of the Las Perlas islands for cleaner water.
Brass Fittings & Copper Tubing	Start first at Panama Auto (listed under “Auto Parts & Supplies”) they are centrally located on Transistmica and have a good selection. If they do not have what you want, try: Hidroca 304-0300 www.hidroca.com Tools and hydraulics. Carries some odd and/or unusual brass hose fittings which Panama Auto does not carry. Located in Parque Lefevre, Calle 2a
Buses & The Subway / Metro	SEE ALSO PAGES 2, 3, 4 and 5 of this guide for maps Helpful Link on how to get around: http://traveleater.net/panama-how-to-take-the-bus-if-you-dont-speak-spanish Within Panama City: METRO BUSES www.mibus.com.pa There is one Metro bus route on the causeway. It goes from the bus stop across from the Flamenco Marina, along the causeway, into Balboa (with stops close to Nikko's Cafe, Balboa Dental Clinic, Islamorada Charts, ACP office to start the paperwork for a transit and Citibank to pay the transit fee) and then continues to the terminal at Albrook Mall (see below). For all other routes, go to the web page noted above. Metro Buses (white with orange stripe) have replaced the diablo rojo buses in the city. DRIVERS CARRY NO CASH. You MUST purchase a metro card which looks and is used like a debit card. The card costs $2 to purchase. You then add money to (“recargar”) the card and the fare (25 cents within the city) will be deducted from the card when you ride the bus. Several people can use the same card, each person swiping and then handing the card off to someone else. There are various places in town where the cards may be purchased or money added to existing cards, such as the bus terminals (see below) and at kiosks inside some Super 99 grocery stores. There is also a machine at Balboa Yacht Club Restaurant where you can add money to your card. When you get on the bus, press the card against the reader and your fare will be deducted. If you plan to transfer to another bus, also swipe the card on the reader at the exit door. This will give you 45 minutes to transfer onto another bus for free. (Note that if you use one card for several people, only one person will get the transfer credit.) Company policy is that you can catch the bus only at designated bus stops. Look for the orange and white Metro Bus sign. EXCEPTION ON BUS STOPS: On the causeway, you can try to flag the bus down. To stop the bus to get off, press one of the buttons by the seats before the stop you want. FARES: Fares are typically 25 cents. However, some metro bus routes originate outside of the city and, as a result will have a higher fare. Example: The “Corridor Sur-Albrook” bus will go to Albrook Mall, but because it originated a long distance outside the city the fare will be $1.25 instead of 25 cents. Generally, any bus with either “Corridor Sur” or “Corridor Norte” will have come from outside the city. When in doubt, ask. There are two bus terminals cruisers commonly use: Terminal at Albrook Mall Metro buses from the Causeway (La Calzada de Amador) go to the terminal at Albrook Mall. They are signed Amador – Albrook (www.mibus.com.pa/albrook-amador). The Metrobus is scheduled to run each 30 minutes in the morning, then hourly but timing is flexible to say the least. Allow 20-30 minutes between the causeway and the terminal. Where the bus drops you off at Albrook Mall (close to the mall's “Tigre” exit) is where you pick it up again to return to the Causeway. They are supposed to run between 08:00 to 18:00 (Saturday mostly to 19:00). Fare between the Causeway and Albrook Mall is 25 cents. (Albrook Mall has pharmacies, a Super99 Grocery Store, many clothing stores, a Do-It Center in the mall and a Noveys in the parking lot, Noveys and Do-It Center being hardware stores, also a movie theater, food courts, cell phone shops, etc.) Terminal Marañon Located close to Cinco de Mayo area, near the older area of town. (In walking distance to Fish Market, the Walking Street, Casco Viejo. See map on page 3.) If you disembark in this area from one Metro bus you can transfer to another without paying an additional fare. Outside of this area, if you get off one Metro Bus but think

	you will be boarding another within 45 minutes, pass your card through the machine before you disembark and your payment/transfer will remain on your card for one hour. The Panama Metro www.elmetropanama.com ROUTES: www.elmetrodepanama.com/pdf/LineaUno.pdf The subway runs from the main subway terminal by Albrook Mall to the east side of the city. To use the subway you need to purchase a special “3-way” card like the Metro Bus card described above. This 3-way card can then be used on BOTH the Metro Buses, the Metro Subway as well as any other public transportation area which requires a fee (e.g., the bathrooms in the terminal). These cards can be purchased at marked kiosks in the Albrook Terminal. Fares are $0.35 per ride. Especially during rush hour it can be extremely faster to use the subway rather than a bus. Diablo Rojo & Colectivo Buses Diablo Rojos (old U.S. school buses, often ingeniously decorated) are no longer allowed for routes within Panama City (as of 15 March, 2013). There are some exceptions and when they appear in the city you can catch a bus to the Albrook Terminal. To stop the bus, yell “parada” (pronounced pah-rah-dah). White or yellow vans that hold 12 to 25 people are known as “colectivos”. There are colectivos which go between the causeway (the road by the anchorages) and Plaza Cinco de Mayo (see maps, pages 2 and 3) . These cater to local workers, however, and so will be more frequent early in the morning or late in the afternoon. Look for the sign “Cinco de Mayo” or “Calidonia” in the window. Once at Cinco de Mayo, you can transfer to most any other bus in the city (see page 3 of this guide). Again, these local vans are more frequent early in the morning or late in the afternoon. For other times, it is easier to use the “dollar taxis” described in the “Taxis” section of this guide. THE RED “HOP ON HOP OFF” BUSES The double decker red buses are run by a private company and have a circular route with only a few stops. The stops are: Multicentro Mall, Calle 52, Parque Urraca, Albrook Mall, Miraflores Locks, Biomuseo on Causeway (still under construction), Isla Flamenco (at end of the causeway) and Casco Antiquo. Tickets for adults are $29 and can be purchased at any bus stop. For more info, see www.citysightseeingtpt.com
Camera Repair / Camera Battery Replacement	Camara Service 666-7008 Bella Vista, on Via Espana in Plaza Concordia (opposite the Rey's supermarket on Via Espana at the footbridge). Is on the ground floor inside Plaza Concordia. Open Monday through Saturday. Prompt service, honest appraisal. Carry batteries for Canon cameras (which cannot be located in the chain camera stores e.g., such as Panafoto, Audiophoto). (Paza Concordia is where Via Espana is a one way road, going toward Cinco de Mayo. Take the subway to the Iglesia del Carmen stop)
Canal Transits	See “Agents” for a list of canal agents or for people who can rent you tires and lines. If you want to organize the canal transit yourself, you must: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Apply for the canal transit by filling out the necessary forms (see below) 2. Have the boat measured 3. Pay your transit fee 4. Obtain your transit date The application paperwork can be obtained in person at Building 129A on Avenida Arnulfo Arias Madrid, in Balboa. (Take the Metro bus from the causeway, disembark at the the SECOND stop after the Banistmo Bank. Walk in same direction the bus was going. Building 129A will be up ahead a short ways across from Banco Nacional. On your right hand will be a shopping area with Nikko's Cafe – great for the photos – a Citibank where you can pay your transit fee and a Happy Copy where you can have charts copied. Balboa Dental Clinic and the Balboa Post office are also in this area.) You can also call: 272-4571 or 443-2293 and ask for the form to be emailed to you. Complete the form and return it in person or via email with a copy of your passport and a copy of your boat papers. You DO NOT need to have your lines on the boat when you are measured by the AdMeasurer. You only need to tell them you have rented the required lines and they will be on the boat on the date of transit. See also: www.pancanal.com/eng/ Go to “Maritime Services” and then “Customer Forms”. Available for download and printing are documents such as “Procedures for Securing a Handline Transit at the Panama Canal”, “Request for Transit Booking”, etc. See also www.panlinehandler.com This web page has a spreadsheet for registering captains looking for line handlers and line handlers looking for captains.
Canon	Canon cameras & printers can be purchased at OfficeDepot, PriceSmart, PanaPhoto, etc. For repairs, go to: Canon Oficompu 279-0264 Centro Comerical la Alhambra (across the street from El Dorado Rey Grocery store on Tumba Muerto).

	Although it doesn't look it, this is a two story complex. You can see stairs if you walk along the street level. Go up the stairs and you will be in a parking area with store fronts. The Canon shop is closer to the west end and well marked. (Take Tumba Muerto bus, get off at large Rey sign on the left.)
Canvas Sewing	SUGGESTIONS: ALWAYS purchase and provide the materials for the job. This includes the fabric, thread, etc. Negotiate the price for labor and then pay for the labor when the work is completed, or in stages. Do not contract multiple jobs at once. If you have multiple jobs, try one small job first. ABC Canvas Roman 6706-9077 Located on the Atlantic side, in the Isla Grande/Linton area. Check-In / Check-Out	Following are general guidelines only. Experiences vary, details are fluid. This applies to costs as well. Check on the morning VHF net for current details. For Cruiser Immigration Office (Albrook Immigration), see maps on page 5. Get your 72-hour visa and cruising permit first. See details below. You will need both a Cruising Permit (appx $200) and a Mariner Visa (appx $100 per person, NOT the same as a regular tourist visa). The Cruising Permit is issued for one year but becomes invalid if you leave the country with your boat. If you arrive by boat and then leave and return to the country by airplane, your mariner visa will be void and you will need to return to Albrook Immigration (formerly known as “Diablo Immigration”) to obtain a new one before you can leave the country by boat on an international zarpe. Ask on the morning net for current costs. International Check In: have plenty of copies of passports for each crew member, your original zarpe from previous country, ships papers, etc. On arrival see either of the two “shore side” immigration officers for your 72 hour temporary visa. There is an immigration officer at Balboa Yacht Club (by the ship rails) as well as one on the upper level of the Duty Free building at the end of the causeway. Next go to the Port Captain at Flamenco (also on the upper level of the Duty Free building to turn in your zarpe and receive the “Declaracion General” (cost appx $20) and to apply for your cruising permit ($200 appx). When you have the cruising permit, make a few copies of it and go to the Albrook Immigration office for your Mariner Visa (cost appx $105 per person). See map on page 5. You can either take a taxi to Albrook or catch the Abrook/Ciudad de Saber bus from the Albrook Mall. NOTE: The cruising permit will be issued for one year OR until your vessel documentation expires, whichever

Check-In / Check-Out (continued)	comes first. The Mariner Visa will be issued for as long as the cruising permit. The officials recognize that this may put American boat owners in a bind as American boats are issued a documentation paper for only one year at a time. Dress appropriately, be polite and respectful and they will work with you. Be rude or beligerent and they will not. Checking Out: only two stops are needed for checking out: Go first to the Port Captain on Flamenco Island (above the Duty Free Shop) to get the international zarpe. Then to either the immigration officer at Balboa Yacht Club or the one at Flamenco (see also note below on costs). As always, have plenty of copies of everything and your cruising permit. Note that if you arrived by boat and received your mariner visa then flew out of Panama and returned to Panama by plane your mariner visa will be void and you will now have a regular tourist visa. The immigration officer may require you to go to Diablo Immigration to check out. See also “Fumigation”. See also the two notes on the next page. NOTE : It has been reported that the Panamanian Government is requesting email confirmation of all boats planning to enter Panamanian waters. If anyone has details, please forward to the email noted on the first page of this guide. NOTE 2: On the Atlantic side, you can check in at Bocas del Toro, Colon, Shelter Bay or Porvenir (San Blas). Be sure to always get a receipt for any money paid. You may need to show that receipt on the Pacific side to verify you are legal even if you have a stamp in your passport. In 2015 this was a particular problem for people checking into Porvenir. Also, checking into Porvenir is more expensive because of the autonomy status of the San Blas. Official Website for maybe more infos some day: http://www.migracion.gob.pa (maybe a dooropener whom to contact online or tel 311) http://www.migracion.gob.pa/images/Noticias/Archivos%20PDF/Archivos%20en%20pdf/Transparencia/Requisitos/Permiso%20de%20marino/REQUISITOS%20PERMISO%20DE%20MARINOS.pdf (02/2016 in spanish and not helpful yet, but maybe improved one day)

The T-intersection street (on the left) has a double row of shacks down the centre of it (called “Thieves Market” or “Sal Si Puede”). Walk down the T-intersection street, being mindful of the eye-level corrugated iron roofs of the shacks. Cross over the road at the traffic lights, then take the first left after that. Continue another 50yds to where the road forks (there is a sign “Bienvenidos Barrio China”), then take the left fork. Casa Curiosidades is immediately on your right, opposite the live chicken market (you will smell and hear the chickens). There is also a Chinese grocery store across from Casa Curiosidades, which is cheaper than the other Chinese grocery stores around town (e.g., the one across the street from Lung Fung restaurant, or at Bal Harbour). Diesel/Gas	In all cases, check in advance. These sources many times have no stock to sell to transients. Balboa Yacht Club (BYC) – Call VHF 6 or call the Marina office at (+507) 228-2313, ext. 3. When obtaining diesel, you can also fill up your water tanks at no additional charge. Does not carry gasoline. No service charge. Flamenco Marina -- Call VHF 10 or (+507) 341-0665 to make appointment. Carry diesel, gas and water. At times, have charged a fee to be at the dock. At times have charged $0.05 per gallon to water. Confirm in advance. (Note: if you are tied to the Flamenco dock you may be asked by a govt official to show a fumigation certificate – see "Fumigation") The diesel tends to be slightly cheaper at Flamenco than in La Playita Marina. NOTE: Fuel dock is very low. Dip your fenders onto the water. Do NOT expect the staff to know how to tie up a boat or help with lines, if there is big surge in the harbor. La Playita – Call VHF 9 or (+507) 314-1730. You may be required to pay an extra fee of $20 USD to bring your boat to the dock. Water is available for a fee ($0.05 USD per gallon). A diesel surcharge may be applied ($30) for diesel purchases less than a set amount (typically 200 gallons). There is also a surcharge for credit card payments. Gasoline is NOT available. Before bringing your boat in check with them first on availability and current fees. See also Oliver Yacht Services under "Agents". Will pick up gas bottles and fuel tanks, have them filled and deliver them back same or next day. The closest service station is in La Boca. Catch a Metro bus at the Causeway and get off at the first stop after the Banistmo Bank. Walk back to the Banistmo bank and cross the street towards the road that runs behind the large monumet. Continue west about ½ mile. They have refused to fill "non-standard" jerry cans. Alternatively, take the Metro Bus all the way to the terminal. There is a gas station next to the terminal. You will need to take a taxi to return to the Amador causeway. Filled jerry jugs are not allowed on the bus. In Las Perlas, diesel and gasoline are available on Contadora Island and Isla del Rey at the north end. In the western islands diesel is available from a barge at Isla Cebaco. There is a fuel dock in Pedregal, the port of David, but it is a 25-mile trip up the estuary from Boca Chica (the only safe entrance of the three) and has to be done with the tides, requiring two days for a sailboat.

Fumigation	24 Hour Fumigation Svcs 6464-1089 NOTE: Fumigation requirements, if any, for boats entering Panama are a moving target. Fumigation has, historically, not been required of cruising boats entering Panama. But it should be noted that fumigation of boats for mosquitoes is the law depending on your last port of call. It has been reported that if your boat “touches land” (as in enters a marina or ties to a fuel dock) a fumigation certificate may be required. In 2011-2012, boats at the Flamenco Marina fuel dock were asked to provide or obtain a fumigation certificate. Boats at the Balboa Yacht Club fuel dock were not.

Cheapest place for fresh, locally grown, unrefrigerated fruits and vegetables. It is many acres. You can hire a local person (price negotiable) with a cart to show you the areas and collect your purchases, then get them out to a taxi. For 25 cents, you can take a taxi into the market and drive through the stalls. Roderick Quill (6673-1748) will shop for you (give him, a list) and deliver. NOTE: Cruisers often use Rogelio and his van to make a weekly trip to Abastos and then the Fish Market. Any cruiser wishing to organize this can call Rogelio/Roger (listed under taxis) and find out what day he is available and how many people he can take. Announce on the morning VHF net (see "Nets"). Rio Abacho - Small Veggie and Fruit-Market, ca. 12 stalls (one with fish and eggs), on Via Espana, direction Tocumen, right hand side passed the Discovery-Center, close to the Burger King; Metro-Bus-Station "Super99, Rio Abacho". Calidonia Open Air Market. – From the $Taxi drop-off at Plaza Cinco de Mayo (see map, page 3), walk under the overpass and down Via Espana (the one way road with traffic going towards Cinco de Mayo). Look for the flower lady on the right. Down that alleyway behind her will be fruits and vegetable stalls with produce obtained from Abastos. Turn left towards the end and you will find a meat vender area. Mercado de Mariscos (Fish Market) – Avenida Balboa and Eloy Alfara (at the western end of Avenida Balboa). White building with a blue roof. Fresh fish, shrimp, etc. There is also a restaurant upstairs which overlooks the market stalls. (see page 3 of this guide) NOTE: There are colectivo taxis which run between the fish market and Multi Centro Paza (Paitilla). Cost is $1 per person, maximum 4 persons. NOTE: Closed the first Monday of each month for fumigation and cleaning. Mercado Publico – Meats, vegetables, etc. At the beginning of Avenida Balboa (the western end). (see page 3 of this guide) See also Oliver Yacht Services under "Agents". Can assist with all levels of provisioning.

Location Chinatowns

There are two “Chinatown” areas in Panama City for groceries: one next to the Fish Market and the other in El Dorado behind the Rey and Super 99 Grocery Stores. These are small stores that carry oriental products, fruits and vegetables. The stores at El Dorado offer Peking Duck hanging in their front windows. There is a large Chinese grocery store in the El Dorado Mall itself, to the back left of the building (NW corner), upstairs. Carries dried mushrooms, canned Chinese vegetables, many types of teas, etc.

There is also a smallish Chinese grocery store across the street from Lung Fung Restaurant (see map page 4 of this guide) Avenida B is also a Chinatown district. This one specializes in cheap party goods, toys, etc.

Lexan/Plastics	Neither Lexan nor any other treated polycarbonate is available in Panama City. Multi Plastic, SA (La Casa de Acrilico) 279-0441 multiplastic@cablonda.net , Head of office: Angel Batista, multiplasticacrilicos.com Sells Starboard sheet and plastics, including polycarbonate plastic. But their polycarbonate is NOT treated for UV. Located in URB Industrial Los Angeles on a side street behind Rodelag. Leaving Lung Fung restaurant, turn left and walk down the road past Rodelag. Turn left at the T-intersection. It will be on the left a few doors up, just past Fausto Salizar (" Tools "). (See map on page 4)

Line	See Abernathy's , Casa Mar , or Centro Marino under " Chandlers ". The Abernathy's on Transmistica typically has the largest selection. See " Agents " for information on renting lines for canal transits.
Line Handlers	The web site: www.panlinehandler.com has a spread sheet function to match captains looking for line handlers and line handlers looking for boats. Another option is to ask on the morning VHF net (see " Nets ") or to look on any of the bulletin boards located in Balboa Yacht Club or the anchorages. See also " Agents ". Note: It is always good to have at least one experienced line handler on the boat, especially at the stern as this is the most important task. Before you do your own transit, try to do a transit as a line handler on another boat. In Balboa Yacht Club, La Playita and Shelter Bay there are bulletin boards where one can advertise to be or look for line handlers.
Liquors	Best prices and largest selection of hard liquors and wines is at Mega Depot (See " Groceries, Big Box Stores ") Cruisers on a tourist or maritime visa can buy liquors at the Duty Free shop under the Port Captain's office at the end of the Causeway. Be sure to bring your passport. Felipe Motta has several locations throughout the city. One is at the end of the Causeway close to Centro Marino. More expensive than other places but also carries more specialized products such as German beer (like Erdinger, Krombacher, etc.).

Mail/Freight	Unless you are using an experienced ship's agent such as Marine Warehouse, be aware that it is often significantly cheaper to pay the minor customs duty on a boat part rather than the considerable expenses involved with using someone not accustomed to "boat in transit" regulations. Do comparison shopping before you order! AVOID Mail Box type businesses for anything except mail or low value items! SHIPMENTS INTO PANAMA: To bring in mail from the U.S., it is best to use PakYa Panama or Air Facility (see below). They each have addresses in Miami (or the Miami vicinity). You send your item to that address and they will forward it to Panama and take care of customs clearance. For parts and marine supplies brought in under "Yacht in Transit" you will need to use a service which can do your custom clearance (such as Marine Warehouse , listed under " Chandlers "). Note that all packages entering Panama with goods, need to have an official bill. Packages over $100 are subject to import taxes in addition to the shipping costs. But it bears repeating: the import taxes are OFTEN significantly less than the fees associated with "Boat in Transit".

Mail/Freight (continued)	(Shippingadress for goods to La Playita see Marinas) Air Facility 294-0300 Located on on the road behind the Caja de Ahorro main office which is on Via Espana. Very economical, but you must first set up an account with them. Spanish speaking only. As of 2013, charge $2.65 per pound plus 5% (minimum $5) of the value of the goods shipped in. (See map on page 4. From Transistmica, walk down Via Brazil to the road just before Via Espana. Turn right at the building named "Bemajo" which is across the street from "Black Tie". You will be walking against traffic on a one way road. Go two blocks. It will be on your left.) DHL-Express A package valued 1200 Euro France to Panama-City via DHL-Express (Tel: (507) 2713451) was delivered in 2016 directly to La Playita Harbour. Freightcost for less 5 kg was 150 Euro, took less then 4 days. No customs-duty, DHL only added a local handling-fee of around USD 10. Hassle free easy pickup in the marina-office. DHL A package valued 200 Euro Germany to Panama-City via DHL (without Express!) was delivered in 2016 not directly to La Playita Harbour. It was adressed like the parcel above (and how stated under Marinas). DHL just delivers to the boarder/airport and then the local post takes care of it, which means this parcel waited in an localpostoffice to be collected. The tracking-number changed within the country! It took ~3 hours phonecalls to only locate the parcel and the exact postoffice (some spoke a little bit english). The postoffice where we collected the parcel is in Balboa: get of Causeway-Metrobus at the station "Balboa Theater", go back 50m and the Correo-Oficina is on the basement at the roundabout. The business with the post itself was easy and friendly (they actually phoned us twice after requesting an info which they did not had immediately Tel: (507) 512 6245 / 63403406) and we had to only pay a 0,25 USD fee. Customs is in the same office. It took more than one hour to get the parcel with a lot of arguing about "Ship in transit" should be taxfree, aswell to understand what and how they were calculating. No english speaking staff, and at a certain stage they will loose any little english understanding (but helpful bypassers!). They transfered the value into USD, then added 14% for calculated freight (Freightcost for less 5 kg was 35 Euro in Germany) and 1% for calculated insurance to get the CIF (cost, insurance and freight) on this sum they added 15% importtax, added this to the amount and finally added 7% VAT (ITMS) on the total. The lady was not able to add numbers properly or converting EUR into USD and we ended up paying ~52 USD. The aduana-boss of this office is Gabriel Luzcando. (According to the La-Playita-Office that's the way it is ...) Bottom-line: You might want to calculate the break-even for your carrier (money and effort:-) and make sure the parcel arrives where you want it to arrive. PakYa Panama, 236-1728 www.pakyapanama.com You do not need to set up an account first. But do contact them to confirm the correct Miami address. Prices can be high. You cannot guesstimate in advance because they calculate fees based on both weight and box dimensions. If you get a quote, get it in writing or via email. Even then, the quote may not stand. PakYa charges an additional $50 for packages labeled "Yacht/Boat in Transit" and they will automatically add this fee if your boat name appears before your name on the package label. (See map, page 4, for location.) Panama Net Buy 260-7810 www.panamanetbuy.com On Tumba Muerto, Plaza Aventura, Edificio Neptuno (kitty corner from the El Dorado Mall). Check with them for instructions on General Delivery. But in-coming mail service is not reliable. Panlogistics Denise Dominguez 6747-6513 denise@panlogisticsgroup.com www.panlogisticsgroup.com Freight forwarder of packages from their Miami address to Panama. Usually they can also deliver to Flamenco and La Playita and call/email you beforehand to make an appointment or you can collect your parcel in their office. They are flexible. Staff can speak and write English. You must first set up an account with them. Cost is about $5US/kg all inclusive, but make shure of this in advance!. For small shipments, they usually handle the package at customs as personal packages. They can also do a "yacht in transit" when the value is $1,000 or more. Fee for "yacht in transit" is $150USD. For better follow-up and tracking, send them an email when you order something. Also before taking arranging a delivery of your goods or going in to get them, request they email you a copy of the invoice to make sure it is correct!!A 2 USD handlingfee is added, aswell customsduity. Transexpress

Deb has set up a Mailbox, Etc. account at the Marbella MBE and can accept mail or parcels on behalf of others. All items will incur a $5 service charge fee in addition to any weight, freight or custom charges. Items can be collected at the DP or delivered to you for an additional charge, minimum $10 per hour. Large items stored for longer than a week will incur storage fees of $5 per week per item. To arrange for this, email Deb at deb.pcc@gmail.com using the subject line “MAIL”. See also Oliver Yacht Services under “Agents”. They have a mailbox in Miami which can be used to bring mail and/or packages into Panama. It is important that there is an official bill in the package. NOTE: There is a Panamanian Post Office in the back of the El Dorado shopping mall, by the food court. All packages that enter Panama through the mail system and do not go to a specific post office or post office box are sent to General Delivery at this location. There is a Panamanian Aduana officer there to help with clearance of packages. Having a tracking number for your package would help significantly in locating it. SHIPMENTS OUT OF OR WITHIN PANAMA: DHL and FedEx services are available at Aerocastillos across from Rey Grocery store in Diablo and at any of the Mail Boxes, etc. stations in Panama City. To obtain a mooring, reserve diesel or a haul out on the rail, best is to go to the office in person. Alternative is to call the mooring & rail office. You can email them at bycbilling@cwpanama.net (the office staff speak and write excellent English) but you may not get a response back. Do not sell gasoline. Facilities include restaurant and bar with free wifi (open to the public). Secure wifi is also available on boats close to the marina office. Showers and laundry facilities are reserved for BYC members and mooring holders. Launcha service is provided to bring you from your boat to the muelle (dock). Call the muelle on VHF 6 to request a launcha (water taxi). (Cruiser guides have reported a $25 fee to join the yacht club but this is no longer required.)

Also do haulouts on a railway system. You must make advance reservation for haulout and time available may be limited due to tides and boat draft.

Flamenco Marina VHF 10, 314-0665 marina@fuerteamador.com, www.fuerteamador.com

Located at the end of the causeway, extremely pricey. Has diesel and gas services at times. Call in advance to verify availability and costs.

In April 2012, The Flamenco shipyard was taken over by Quality Yachts Panama (also the owners of Marina Americo Vespucio and its shipyard located in Puerto la Cruz, Venezuela). Have a 250 ton marine travel-lift. They offer full services (bottom painting, general painting, osmosis treatment, polishing, shaft and propeller repairs, etc.). Contact Victor Marten for full details and prices. 6866-6609, 314-0183 (speaks English).

La Playita Marina, VHF 9; 314-1730; laplayita@siwireless.com; Carmen Garcia de Paredes is head of the office (and daughter of the owner, they own the Calypsoferrys aswell).

Both a free anchorage and a marina. La Playita is located on Punta Culebra and is the one which faces the canal channel and Taboga Island. Provides dinghy dock service to the anchorage users for a fee. Check in the office for current rates (they speak English and Spanish) which are $50 USD per week, Monday through Sunday. Day rates can apply if you arrive after Monday.

Use a long dingypainter/-line (2m+) to allow fellow cruisers to get to their dinghy aswell! Make shure no dingy is not trapped under the structure on tides below minus, when the dock is sitting on the rocks.

Also available are: snack bar, ice, waste and oil disposal, water, diesel (no gasoline). See "Diesel/Gas" for more details.

La Playita - Anchorage

Located in front of the marina. Anchoring is free, but you have to pay for the dinghydock to get on land. Do not cheat on their fees or they will close their services for all cruisers (which happened before).

Holding is bad in mud and some boats drag during squalls - be prepared and use an anchoralarm and lots of chain.

The boats who stayed longer here in the same spot have 55-65m (170-200ft) chain in the water and tested the digging in with full power.

Calculate your swingroom! At low windspeeds the anchorchains are not stretched and boats often rest above their anchor.

Tides more than 6m/21ft at springwater are producing funny currents in different directions so boats are sometimes pointing against each other. In the highseason/spring you might count 60+ boats, and there is still enough space for everyone (If not everyone tries to be in the first row).

If the wind is coming from the south with 15+ knots it gets really uncomfortable, the swell is building up very quickly.

If there is a seldom pacific-swell (1-2m) coming into the anchorage the more sheltered place inside turns into a washingmachine (you will observe then, that the harbour evacuates the slips).

The anchorage is totally exposed to the big swells of the channel-traffic and the wake produced by the workingboats coming out of the marina (Fix your pots on the stove! No joke!).

The little brightblue workingboats: If you want to give a polite feedback on the seamanship/behaviour of the captains, you might want to note the time and the name of the vessel aswell what they did good (or not so good).

The operating company is not under the mangement of the harbour nor the Calypso-ferrys and is named: "Two Ocean Services", tel. 308-9100. This company has an separate office in La Playita. The owners are reachable via email: Senora Maggie and Senor Gabriel, ep@epvmarine.com, me@epvmarine.com (Please remember: Cruisers are not the income-source no.1 around here and we are guests in the country).

Some very weird waves, steep and up to 1m, sometimes occurred in spring 2016, always coming out of the canal.

	without having a visible source (definetly not caused by ships!). At night please use dinghylights to avoid beeing run down by another boat and please use anchorlights (and additional lights (e.g. solar-garden-lanterns) to make it easier for the workingboats to manouver aswell your fellow cruisers to anchor at night (e.g. those coming through the canal, very often after dark), Las Brisas - Anchorage Las Brisas is the one that faces the city where you see the skyline an frequently fireworks. Holding is bad in mud and some boats drag during squalls even with their mooring. Calculate for your swingroom, that boats who stayed longer here in the same spot have 50-65+m (170-200+ft) chain in the water and tested the digging in with full power. NOTE: sunken sailboat at N 08 55.309 and W 079 32.107 Strong winds from the east will create a choppy, dangerous short wave quickly. The anchorage has a semi-functional, dangerous dinghy dock. To get to shore you must tie your dinghy at the dinghy dock and use a small fiberglass boat on a circular line to pull yourself to shore. Some locals are running water taxis at Las Brisas. Alfaro on Tumba Muerto 279-5300 Open Monday-Friday 8:30-17:00, Saturday 8:30-13:00 Carries Yamaha outboards (and parts). NOTE: Multiple cruisers have had problems with special ordering parts which they must pay for in advance but that never arrive. Good if the part you need is in stock. And if a part is in stock in the Tumba Muerto location they will gladly deliver it to the causeway location. But do use caution with special orders. Many cruisers also report problems with mechanical jobs completed by Tesa. They have a high turnover of mechanical staff and as a result their mechanics are not always very qualified. Yamaha Sports On the corner of Via Brazil and Avenida 50 Sometimes the local chandlers carry outboards (like Pesqueros on the Causeway). Pet Supplies	Melo Pet Stores have locations throughout Panama City (including Albrook Mall and one across from Riba Smith Grocery Store on Transistmica, see the map on page 4). Carry many brands of pet foods and supplies. They also carry Hills Prescription Diet foods. There is a big store across from MultiCentro Mall on Balboa Ave. Also one on Transistmica across the street from Riba Smith. See also “Veterinarian” Several of the vets listed carry specialty pet foods and supplies.
Pharmacy	There are several pharmacy chains. Most famous is Arrocha (Albrook Mall, Albrook Plaza, on Transistmica, etc.). The Rey, Riba Smith, Super 99 and Machetazo grocery stores also have pharmacies (see “Grocery Store, General”). You can purchase most items (including antibiotics) without a prescription. If a store asks for a written prescription (typically, Arrocha and Riba Smith pharmacies are most picky about requiring prescriptions), try another. Every pharmacy has a cross reference catalog where, if you give them the name of a medicine they do not recognize, they can look it up to find the name of the local brand. If you ask for it, many, if not most, pharmacies will give you the Jubilado discount without proof of residency although they may ask to see your passport to prove your age (see “Jubilado Discount”). The pharmacy close to Timburelli Pizza in Balboa is used to working with cruisers and will often provide most medicines, without a prescription, if you alert them that you are a cruiser. It is advisable to carry a sample of any medicine you are trying to refill. Show your boat papers listing you as captain of a ship and you may find it easier to obtain medicines without a prescription.

Propane	Propane tanks cannot be filled within Panama City. They must be taken to either the town of Chilibre (between Panama City and Colon) or in La Chorrera (across the Bridge of the Americas). Propane is sold by two companies in Panama: Tropigas and Panagas. There is a Tropigas location in Panama City (at the intersection of Transistmica and Tumba Muerto across from the national brewery) where you can purchase new tanks /propane supplies or swap your existing standard tank for a refilled tank. TANK REFILLS To refill and keep your existing tank, you have several options: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Take a taxi to Chilibre. There is both a Tropigas and a Panagas outlet in the town of Chilibre. Be sure to dress appropriately, as there is a dress code to enter the facility. You must wear long pants, closed toed shoes and a shirt with sleeves. Any other attire and you will not be allowed into the facility. Expect the taxi trip to be about $30 to $35 round trip. It will cost about $12 to fill a 20lb tank. 2. Contact a taxi driver to pick up your tank and return it to you (See contact information under "Taxi") 3. Call Oliver Yacht Services under "Agents". Will pick up gas bottles and fuel tanks, have them filled and deliver them back same or next day. 4. Leave your tank at the Panama City Tropigas location for them to take to Chilibre for filling (will take 2-4 days before your tank is available for pickup) 5. Option for DIY: Panagas, Via Simon Bolivar, Tel 244-0321 Take the Metro and get out at "San Miguelito", take the overpass to the south, walk 300m to the station to fill the tank overnight. (Be aware that gastanks are not allowed on public transportation) With a half-full bottle you only pay for what is going in (and the transport) NEW TANKS: New tanks are available at Tropigas (downtown), Novey's (see "Hardware") and Pricesmart (see "Grocery, Big Box Stores"). These are typically 20 lb. steel, painted tanks although you might be able to find an aluminum tank at the Tropigas location. Local tanks are aluminum but come with a fitting not typically used by boaters. NOTE ON PANAMA PROPANE: Propane purchased in Panama will burn dirty because it is a propane/butane mix but it is OK to use and will not damage your system. The pressure will be lower through the whole range of temperatures due to the propane/butane mix. The "fullness" of the tank is done by weight or volume using an OPD (overfill protection device). The "fullness" should be determined by weight, but frequently is done by volume using the OPD as the guide NOTE ON TANK FITTINGS: There are 3 types of compression fittings that attach to a propane tank (1) U.S., (2) European and (3) The one that's neither of the above. The U.S. ones use a POL (Prest-O-Lite) / bullnosed fitting that has left handed threads (i.e., screw left to fasten). If you need to change fittings: purchase a local fitting with a hose barb, cut off the old end, stick the new fitting on the hose and clamp it, then do a soap test under pressure.

Taxis	Taxis in Panama do not have meters. Instead they have a Taxi Zone Chart , which is basically a map of the city and surrounding areas marked up into zones and sub-zones. Your fare is supposed to depend on how many zones/sub-zones you travel through to get to your destination and how many passengers are in the taxi. The cab driver is required by law to carry a copy of the Taxi Zone Chart and show it to you if asked to do so.

To see the currently published Taxi rates, go to: <http://www.transito.gob.pa/> Scroll down and to the right click on: Tarifas de Taxis. But note that no taxi driver appears to follow the published and legal rates and even the government recommends you negotiate the rate in advance, so read the following carefully.

The basic government approved fare structure is that you pay one flat fee for one person to get into the taxi, and an additional smaller flat fee for every additional passenger and then a rate for each zone or sub-zone you pass through. The 2013 fare for the first person to get in the taxi is $1.20 and the fare for each additional person is $0.50. An additional flat fee of $0.50 is added if you arranged the taxi to meet you and an additional fee of $0.30 if the trip is after 10PM. Many cabbies also add the unofficial "looks like a foreigner" surcharge.

The website mentioned above includes a "fare calculator" where you can enter your starting point and your destination. It will provide what it calls the "appx fare" because (as noted above) the fare would be higher for additional people and also higher for late at night or on a Sunday and an additional surcharge if you arrange to have a taxi meet your someplace to pick you up. Another popular, but unpublished, surcharge is added if you look like a tourist or foreigner. But you can get an idea of the basic fare for one person. We looked up the following official fares on the website:

La Calzada de Amador (the Causeway) to	Official Fare (1 person)	Reality (1 person)
1. Albrook	$1.70	$3 to $5
2. Bella Vista	$2.05	$3 or $4
3. Paitilla	$2.05	$3 or $4
4. Punta Pacifica	$2.40	$4 or $5
4. Los Angeles (Lung Fung Restaurant)	$2.40	$3 to $5

The government recommends you confirm and negotiate the fare BEFORE you get in the taxi. On the other hand, cruisers who have been here for a long time and have a feel for what the appropriate fare should be, recommend that you not ask the fare in advance, just pay the appropriate fare at the end of the ride and exit the taxi. A third strategy is to specify what you are willing to pay and then let the taxista decide to accept your offer or not.

Included below are taxi drivers familiar with cruiser needs (such as where the stores we typically use are located). Many of them speak English as well as Spanish and can act as a translator for you. For each of these reasons, it should be acceptable to pay more for their services than for a taxi one just picks out at random on the street. Each of the following taxi drivers will also negotiate an hourly rate which may, in the long run, prove to be more cost effective than jumping from one taxi to another during a long shopping and/or provisioning day. Some taxi drivers have a PriceSmart card which will enable you access for shopping. Taxi drivers with a card are noted below. (For more info on PriceSmart, see "Groceries, Big Box Stores") Typical hourly rate is $10 to $12.

If you wish to just catch the first taxi you see, you will get a better fare if you walk a small distance away from a major hub. (For example, walk down the causeway a small distance rather than standing in front of one of the anchorage dinghy docks.) If you use a taxi driver you do not know, never leave anything in the taxi for even a short moment (such as a run into an ATM machine). It is also a good idea, to make a note of the taxi number in case there are issues. Calculate +2 up to 5 USD going in the rushhour ca. 16:30-19:00 from the city towards the Causeway (massive congestions) or generally after dark

For the subconscious mind of too greedy taxidrivers (e.g. those demanding 20 USD Amador to Albrook):
Are you catholic? "¿Eres catolico?"

Greed is a deadly sin. You will burn in hell! "La avaricia es un pecado mortal. Usted va a quemar en el infierno!"

Example of coming around:

To skip most congestions one of the fastest and easiest ways to go towards the eastern part of the city is: Take a one-Dollar a person cab to 5 de Mayo, change into the subway 0,35$P., go out "Fernandez de Cordoba" (near Pricesmart) and then take a bus 0,25$P. or a taxi.

The city becomes congested around noon, because many drive home for lunch.

Going back to Amador Causeway is best before 16:00! Between 17:00 and 18:00 it might take 1,5h Albrook to La Playita. (take a warm coat for the bus)

Uber Transportation is available for fixed prices: ref to the Uber-App (maybe a good alternative for unplanned late at night travel)

Things To Do And See In And Around Panama City That Are Free Or Not Too Expensive by S/V Wadda

We were based in Panama City from May 2010 till March 2011. We saw and visited all of the places listed below and used public transport (sometimes a taxi if it was an early start or a late finish) to get to/from them. We purchased a Lonely Planet Guidebook which was helpful: we learned about the towns of Santa Fe and San Francisco in Veraguas through the Lonely Planet book. We had read about the mule track in a cruising guide and after a bit of digging around the Internet we finally figured out how we could get to and from the Camino de Cruces National Park without going on an organized tour.

We picked up a copy of The Visitor newspaper most weeks (it comes out on Thursday). Presently it is available at the Las Brisas hotel lobby, the Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute at Punta Culebra, Pizza Al Leno sometimes has it, and Islamorada Chart Supply has it. Sometimes we read about coming events on bill boards around town, other cruisers make announcements on the morning VHF net, and store windows in Casco Antiguo are also a source of information.

There is a heap of things to see in Panama City and beyond: the country is so much more than a canal, and we urge people to get out, see the country, meet the people before heading off to other places. There are all sorts of ways to spend your money in Panama. There are all sorts of tours available. It is possible to see a lot of the country using public transport (which is very reasonably priced, and safe in our opinion) and self guided.

1. Panama Canal Related

a) Transit the canal line handling on a sailboat.

In my opinion, this is the very best way to fully experience the Panama Canal. To enhance our experience, we have subsequently enjoyed the following:

– Panama Canal / Transoceanic Museum in Casco Antiguo/Viejo [Note, some people and books refer to Casco Viejo and others Casco Antiguo as one in the same place. The official office is called Casco Antiguo, and that is the term I use. Casco Antiguo is the site of the rebuilt town and dates from the late C17th. The original Spanish settlement is Panama Viejo, founded around 1519, and destroyed by Henry Morgan in 1671.] The Canal Museum is located in Cathedral Square, in the old French headquarters. It is a very impressive museum, beautifully laid out, however most of the explanations are in Spanish. [NOTE: You can rent tape players to give explanations in other languages.] The admission is $2 or $3, open Tuesday to Sunday. In addition to the permanent display, there is occasionally a special exhibition there e.g. the recent Smithsonian Centenary exhibition. It is about a 15 minute walk from Cinco de Mayo. To get there by public transport, take the causeway bus either to Cinco de Mayo and then walk up the walking street (Avenida Central) all the way to the top (past the small Machetazo) till you get to a small tree lined plaza with a rotunda in the middle and a church on your right. Cross over the road, the road splits in two, take the left fork, which is still Avenida Central, and then walk till you reach Cathedral Plaza. The Cathedral has two white towers, darkish facade. The Canal Museum is the grey building on the right side of the plaza. If you get off the bus at Todo a Cuerdo (yellow and red signage; also look for the Pizza Napoli sign), walk down that street till it intersects with the walking street, then turn right and walk up the hill etc.

- Miraflores Locks and Visitors Centre See ships transit the canal, another very good museum, in Spanish and English. Admission is $8 (less for jubilados/retirees, but you need to take ID to establish your age bona fides), open every day of the year. You can take a taxi there and have the driver wait, or you can get there by public transport quite easily. Public transport: take the bus to Cinco de Mayo, then cross the road immediately to your left after you get off the bus, take a bus to Terminal (the touts at the corner will call out 'Terminal! Terminal!'. Get off the bus at Terminal, then walk through the Terminal to the 'Niko's Cafe' end. Go through the turnstyle (5c) on your right. The very last bus on your left, is the one that goes to Gamboa or Clayton. Pay 35c when you get on. Get off (call out 'Parada!' for driver to stop) at the blue signs to Miraflores Locks Welcome sign, then follow the blue road/foot path markings. It's about a 10 minute walk to the Visitor's Centre. The Gamboa bus is on a 2 hourly schedule, and leaves Terminal at 8, 10, noon etc. When you're done, go back to the road, wait at the bus stop and return to Terminal etc.

– Old Panama Canal Administration Building The somewhat austere/imposing building on top of the hill in Balboa. In its rotunda (not visible from the street), are 4 large murals depicting various stages of the canal construction, plus sketch drawings on the floor level. It's another way to appreciate what a monumental undertaking the construction of the canal was. Open during the week, admission is free. To get there by public transport: take the bus from the causeway toward Cinco de Mayo and get off before it curves to the right to go into town. Walk straight ahead in general direction of Albrook Mall, go under the ramp to Bridge of the Americas, past Timberelli Pizza, past the old YMCA. Cross the road and go past Islamorada Chart store, continue past the HSBC bank. Before you get to Balboa Dental Clinic, turn right and walk up the wide avenue with the Admin Bldg on the hill in front of you. Admire the Goethals fountain, then walk up the steps. Admire the view from the top of the steps. Now go around to the back of the building (which is the operational front of the building), and enter through the doors. Tell the security guard you'd like to see the murals and they will point you ahead. When you are finished, you can walk through the Balboa neighbourhood around Ancon hill into town (say, 20-30 mins).

– Mosaics on Building Facade on Avenida Central Free, you just have to see them. On your way along Avenida Central walking street, amidst the various reno-botched buildings, you can see glimpses of what a desirable address Avenida Central once was. One building has three panels of mosaics/tiled scenes depicting the Spanish conquest, the canal construction, and a boat transiting a lock. Proceed along Avenida Central, it will be intersected by the road that comes down from Todo a Cuerdo. There is a bank on the corner, next to the bank is a 'Burbujas' store, it has a large tropical fish as its logo. Above the Burbujas signage are the tiled scenes, a bit faded now, but very cool when you first notice them.

– Walk to the Midpoint of the Bridge of the Americas You can get a good view of the ships entering and departing directly under you. You are more protected from traffic on the canal side of the bridge, as the foot path is wider. Take care, as it's a very busy road. You get a great view at night of the channel markers coming in from the Pacific, however I think this is best seen from a bus. To get there: take the bus from the causeway toward Cinco de Mayo and get off just before it curves to the right to go into town. Walk straight ahead and scramble up the ramp onto the foot path on the approach road to the bridge. About 15 mins to centre of the bridge.

– Take the Panama Canal Railway from Panama to Colon. At $22 pp one way ($35pp return) it's not cheap, but is interesting, particularly if you have been to the museums, and/or read 'The Path Between The Seas,' and can appreciate the effort involved in building not just the Canal, but the railroad before it. The train departs Panama at 7:15am and returns late in the afternoon, one trip/day unless there is a cruise ship in town. We took the bus from the causeway to Cinco de Mayo, then taxi to train station, and returned from Colon on the bus. We spent most of the train journey on the outside observation deck

2. Spanish Colonial History and Folklore

– Panama Viejo, World Heritage Site; the site of the first Spanish settlement on the Pacific coast, dates from 1519, destroyed 1671. What's left of the buildings are crumbling ruins, however there is the 4 storey Watchtower (a Panamanian icon) and part of a convent cathedral that have been partially restored. It's a nice park like setting that runs along the water front, on either side of the road. The museum, in Spanish and English, has some interesting pre-Colombian artifacts (the upper floor is the more interesting) The museum and site ~ $5 To get there by public transport: catch the bus on the causeway toward Cinco de Mayo and either get off at Todo a Cuerdo, then walk down that street all the way to the meat market (you will cross the walking street on your way), cross road at the traffic lights and there is usually a 'Panama Viejo' bus waiting – if not, one will be along soon. Any Panama Viejo bus will get you there (I.e., a 20 seater or an old school bus) It's about a 20 – 30 min ride, you will pass MultiPlaza, Multi Centro, Atlapa Convention Centre en route. Get off the bus when you see a bunch of old ruins (a bridge), go to the Visitor's Centre to pay, see the museum, and get a site map. If you take the causeway bus into Cinco de Mayo, walk straight ahead several blocks till you get to T intersection and start of Ave Balboa/Cinto Costera. You will be approximately opposite the fish market (white building, blue roof). Turn right and walk to the traffic lights, cross at lights and turn right, proceed to bus stop and buses marked Panama Viejo.

– Casco Antiguo, World Heritage Site (see earlier note regarding Casco Antiguo/Casco Viejo) The rebuilt town that dates from 1670s. The office of Casco Antiguo has free guided walking tours, in English, on Friday and Saturday mornings at 10:00, 10:30, and 11:00am. Meet at Cathedral Square, or if no one shows up, go to Casco Antiguo office and ask. Casco Antiguo office is located off Avenida A a couple of blocks from Cathedral Square. The tour was great and gave a very good overview of the old town, plus guidelines on where it's safe to walk and where you want to avoid. We returned later for photos. There are events in Casco Antiguo all the time: the National Theatre has regular performances (some free), there is a flea market and cultural presentation (folk dancing) about every other Sunday afternoon in Cathedral Plaza, there are concerts in the various church ruins, there is Cine Cena (dinner and a movie) Tuesday night at Diablo Rosso gallery/bar/restaurant opposite the Jesuit ruins on Avenida A. If we go at night, we go by public transport and return by taxi.

- Mi Pueblito At the base of Ancon hill, 3 re-constructed villages: Spanish colonia, Afro-Caribbean, and Kuna. It is free to walk around, or you can have a guide. There are dance performances on the weekend for a few dollars – best to go during the day during the week to learn when the next performance will be, as they tend not to advertise in the Visitor magazine. We went to a dance recital with the audience the family members of the young performers: mums, dads, siblings, grannies. To get there by public transport: take the causeway bus, alight at the 'On The Run' gas station, cross the road (be careful!) and follow the blue signs
- Beyond Panama City: Portobelo on the Caribbean side, C18th forts in very good state of preservation (World Heritage Site); Fort San Lorenzo at mouth of Chagres River in Colon (you can walk from Shelter Bay Marina)
- Further afield: The town of Las Tablas in the Azuerro peninsula holds the Mil Pollera parade in November – well worth the 5 hour bus trip to get there. Las Tablas is also a big town for carnival, plus various other Spanish cultural heritage events during the year (see The Visitor magazine).
- The very small town of San Francisco, a ½ hour out of Santiago, has a fabulous wooden altar in its church, the first to be carved in the New World. We stopped off in San Francisco on the way back to Santiago from Santa Fe, well worth it. To get to San Francisco by public transport: causeway bus to Cinco de Mayo, bus to Terminal, buy ticket for Santiago inside the Terminal. Bus to Santiago. At Santiago, change to a smaller 20 seater bus to either Santa Fe (see later) or San Francisco.

3. Biodiversity

- Walk Up Ancon Hill Take causeway bus and alight at 'On The Run' gas station. Cross the road and enter at the blue signs for Mi Pueblito and Cerro Ancon. Follow the signs up the hill to your left. You will go through a check point. A cool retreat from the city, good views from top, you may see some interesting birds, critters, and plants on the way. Free! This would be a good place to see the sunrise, however I think the road is only open sunrise to sunset. Picnic area at top.
 - Parque Natural Metropolitano There are about 2 hours of easy walking trails, entry is $2, opens at 6am. Best chance to see animals is to go early in the morning, and be quiet while you walk. You can get there by taxi or, take the causeway bus to Cinco de Mayo, cross road and take bus to Terminal. At Terminal get off the bus, and keep walking in that direction until the road makes a T intersection, then turn to your right and walk till you reach traffic lights, turn to your left and walk till you get to next traffic lights (the anthropological museum is on your left, set back a little). Cross over road at traffic lights to your right, where there will be a sign 'Bienvenido a Parque Natural Metropolitano.' Walk along another ~200m and you will be at the Park entrance. (all up, it's a 15min brisk walk from Terminal). The Park will offer guided night walking tours from 6-10pm on the last Saturday of the month for March, April, and May 2011. As an aside, the Anthropological Museum apparently has a wonderful collection of pre-Colombian artifacts, however in September 2010 (when we visited) they still hadn't been unpacked from their crates following the move from Cinco de Mayo. The museum has a permanent display of 'Prominent Panamanians,' (read corporate sponsors) which was OK, however quite a bit of the information was covered at the Canal Museum.
 - Parque Nacional Soberania You can get here by bus, however you will be limited to one site per visit (unless you like to do a lot of walking along the road!). The park office probably has maps and a place to pay, the trail heads were all unattended. Another option is to hire a car. To get there by bus: take the causeway bus to Cinco de Mayo, then bus to Terminal, inside the Terminal walk to the Niko's Cafe end. Go through the 5c turnstyle on your right. Buses for Gamboa leave from the very last bay on your left. They are usually an orange bus. It costs 65c (2010) to get to Gamboa and takes about an hour. It is useful to do some web surfing on Pipeline Road, Rainforest Discovery Center, Camino de Cruces Trail before hand.
 - Pipeline Road is within Soberania Park, and starts a couple of miles beyond Gamboa. It is famous as a birdwatching place, but also monkey, butterflies, plants. The earlier you get there the better; take water
 - Rainforest Discovery Centre A non-profit runs this facility. We booked online for a 20% discount, so it came to $16pp. This included a guide for the 100ft observation tower who had binoculars and a telescope, and also accompanied us on the trails. The explanations were all in Spanish. The admin bldg has a deep shady verandah with several hummingbird feeders. We were there about 4 hours, so thought it was good value (particularly compared with some of the other tours available, and we wouldn't have seen the birds that we did without our guide) We took a causeway bus to Cinco de Mayo and then taxi to the entrance of Rainforest Discovery Centre ($22). When we were finished, we walked back into Gamboa (20-30min) and took the bus back to Terminal and then home.

- Summit Gardens and Zoo If you want to see a Harpy Eagle (Panama national bird), then this is the place to go...you may see them in the wild, but good luck with that. Also tapir, jaguar, king vultures (stunning), peccaries (friendly), toucans (up close!), macaws, and monkeys. Park like setting, good place for kids to run around. Entry $1 or $2, Gamboa bus from Terminal about 55c.

- Camino de Cruces Trail Withing Camino de Cruces National Park. Walk along part of the old mule trail, used to transport gold from Peru across the isthmus of Panama. The trail was established before Panama Viejo was established: it was built with riverstones over a preexisting indigenous trail through the rainforest. For me, this was the highlight of our rainforest walks - combining rainforests and history – fascinating. It was the most challenging of our walks, and we were a bit grubby at the end as the track was muddy and slippery in places, and we had to ford a shallow river. If you like walking, I would highly recommend this trail. We found a useful sketch map at the Canopy Tower web page. We took the causeway bus to Cinco de Mayo, then taxi to Camino de Cruces trail head, walked along the trail following the river stones, mule foot prints, and when that failed the bits of pink, orange, and blue ribbon tied in the trees. The trail eventually made a T intersection with the Plantation Trail which led back to the Gamboa Road. We then took the Gamboa bus back to Terminal. You can continue on the Cruces Trail till it reaches the Chagres River, then you need to get a boat to take you to Gamboa Bridge, or you can double back to the Plantation Trail. If you did the latter, I would recommend a very early start! There apparently is also a bus from Terminal to Chilibre, but I do not know its schedule.

- Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute at Punta Culebra Very conveniently located to boats anchored at Las Brisas or La Playita. Admission $1- $3. All the interpretive signs are in Spanish and English, and is very family friendly, catering in particular to school aged children. There is a short walking trail, and tanks with marine life. Check out the remnant rail track from when Punta Culebra was part of the Fort Grant complex. Recently (Jan/Feb 2011) there were documentary evenings. At the time, the staff were planning to do another series: watch the Visitor for listings. If you walk along the parking lot from La Playita beside the Smithsonian Road at sunset, look carefully in the trees as you will quite likely see sloths actively searching for food. You might see them curled up in a ball in the tree branches during the day, but if you want to see them on the move, sunset and later is the time to do it.

4. Other Stuff

- Various small art galleries in Panama City eg Canal Gallery (not canal related), has occasional free exhibitions: check The Visitor Magazine. To get to the Canal Gallery, take a causeway bus, then Panama Viejo bus and get off at Atlapa Convention Center. Walk back towards town about 1 block to Elmec Building (It has a big E out front) The Canal Gallery is on the ground floor, on your left. Museum of Contemporary Art, $5 changing exhibitions. Take causeway bus and alight at Todo a Cuerdo. Walk a few blocks on Avenida des Martires (ie continue along on the road the bus takes). Cross over at the traffic lights. The MCA is on your left. On its wall on the street side is some installation art 'Gringo Home Go' in faded capital letters.

- El Valle De Anton town in a volcanic crater about 2 ½ hrs by bus from terminal. Cool temperature, but not chilly, and not as humid as the coast. Walks in the rainforest, petroglyphs, orchids, birds, zoo with great frog display, including the golden frog (another Panamanian symbol), waterfall, and a turbid thermal pool. Quiet and relaxing, recommend a mid week visit rather than weekends.

- Santa Fe Smaller than El Valle, in Veraguas province, also in an extinct volcano (but not as obvious as El Valle). There is a coffee cooperative there with an interesting history. Walking, bird watching, swimming, relaxing. Chilly at night in December. To get there by public transport: take causeway bus to Cinco de Mayo, bus to Terminal, in Terminal get ticket to Santiago. Change buses in Santiago (same terminal, but around the back) for Santa Fe. The road from Santiago up to Santa Fe is very scenic as you cross rivers and climb into the mountains. On the way back from Santa Fe, a brief stop in San Francisco to look at the church is worthwhile (see earlier note in Spanish Colonial History section)

- Boquete Up near the border with Costa Rica, Boquete is the main coffee growing area in Panama. It is located nearby Cerro Baru, the tallest mountain in Panama, which is another old volcano. A roaring river runs through town which has become a popular place to retire for Panamanians, North Americans and Europeans. The town caters to these wealthier migrants and immigrants, however outside the town there are trails to explore of varying difficulty. You can make an overnight hike to the summit of Baru to greet the day and perhaps see both the Caribbean and Pacific coasts. You can hike the Quetzal Trail looking for the Resplendant Quetzal (the national bird of Guatemala). There are several coffee farm tours available (we went on the Cafe Ruiz tour which was very comprehensive). It is very lush countryside. We learned about local minibuses from our hotel and took these to some trail heads, then walked back into town at completion. There is a columnar basalt formation a short distance out of town. To get there by public transport: causeway bus to Cinco de Mayo, bus to Terminal, in Terminal buy ticket for David. It's approximately 6 hours to David (the bus stops in Santiago for meal break), so if you want to push on to Boquete, you need to leave early. Our experience suggests that the trip to/from David/Panama City is popular no matter what time of day or day of the week. The bus to Boquete leaves from the local terminal nearby the David/Panama City terminal. It's another $\frac{3}{4}$ hour or so to go from David to Boquete.

5. Shameless Advertising We have documented all our tourist activities on our blog. We have added links to those people and places we particularly enjoyed and want to recommend to other travellers. Our Panama entries date from April 2010 (San Blas and Portobelo) through to March 2011 (Carnaval). We welcome you to stop by for a visit at <http://waddalog.wordpress.com>
